The Silberman Writing Program

The Silberman Writing Program is a professionally staffed tutoring service with a single, vital purpose: to help the School’s master’s-level graduate students improve their writing and information literacy skills. We are a tutoring program, not an editing service; therefore, we focus on the students’ current strengths and provide them with the tools they need to proofread and edit their own work in the future. In addition, rather than being remedial in nature, the Writing Program works with students at all skill levels, including those students who are ready to make the transition to publishing their academic work.

In order to accomplish these tasks, the Writing Program offers the following services and materials for Silberman’s students and faculty:

- One-on-One Tutoring
- Tele-Tutoring
- Standalone Group Workshops
- In-Class Workshops
- Handouts on Writing and Information Literacy
- Podcasts on Writing and Information Literacy
- Evening and Weekend Hours

For more information about the work being done by the Silberman Writing Program, please contact the program director, Christopher Hartley, at ch552@hunter.cuny.edu or 212-396-7857.